

Santa Monica Coalition for a Livable City

(SMCLC) is a nonprofit, all volunteer group of Santa Monica residents concerned about unsustainable development in our city, the effects it has on traffic and our quality of life, and the influence developer money has on our local elections.

Santa Monica Coalition for a Livable City strongly supports Ted Winterer and Richard McKinnon for City Council

Too much development has brought more traffic than our city can handle.

The majority of our city council members favor more and more, bigger and bigger, projects. And millions of square feet of new development are in the pipeline, which will overwhelm our already gridlocked roads and neighborhoods.

Ted and Richard will stand up to developers and fight for residents.

Ted and Richard currently serve on the Planning Commission, where they have fought to maintain the scale, character and livability of our city.

Don't be fooled. Developers will pour money into Council races to try to confuse voters about which candidates support reasonable growth.

Look at the facts. Ted and Richard support reasonable, not rampant growth.

See what developers have planned for our city. You won't believe what's coming! Visit our website: SMCLC.org.

PLEASE VOTE FOR Ted Winterer and Richard McKinnon for City Council. Let's take our city back from big money interests.